Quotes of the Week

Jesus led people within a deeply dangerous situation. Threats of death, stoning, public rebuke, military reprisal, and starvation were daily concerns. Such threats didn't cause his team to shudder; rather, they struck harder, often at the focal point of the threats: temple officials and the political establishment. Jesus didn't allow the danger zones of his day to alter his plans. He came because of the danger zones.

W. Beusay

There was a rather peaceful confidence in my prayer because I had begun to mature a little during my first year and a half as a Christian. I had come to know about God's absolute control and providence in everything that happened. God had protected me already in countless dangerous situations where death seemed imminent.

S. Watkins
