Quotes for the Week

All of us are tempted to self-sufficiency.

None of us wants to be thought of as emotionally needy, high maintenance, discontent, pessimistic or always having a problem. And so when we face challenges, we default to “I can handle this on my own.” Our tendency is to put on the “happy church face” for Sunday and tell no one what is really happening in our lives.

But that isn’t how relationships are supposed to work.

Relationships are given to us for the mutual building up of each other in love and support. We can get so caught up in our own self-sufficiency that we forget how much we need one another.

And we certainly forget how much we need Him.

Bauer, R. H., & Omartian, S. (2012). 7 love letters from Jesus: pursued by his love, captured by his grace. Grand Rapids, MI: Chosen Books.

I pray this not only for myself but also for _____. May they be wholly yielded to Your will and purpose. We are like a piece of driftwood on a river whose speed and direction we cannot control. Yet we know that You have this river in Your hands. Help us to trust that You will do right by us; give us the assurance that when You are our only hope, that is sufficient and we need nothing more. Only Your will and glory matters. To that end we dedicate ourselves. In Jesus’ name, Amen.
