Quotes

Many times our efforts in leading people to Christ are fruitless because we forget the necessary preparation for witnessing. The divine order is to first talk to God about men, and then talk to men about God.

Bright, B. (1994). 10 Basic Steps toward Christian Maturity Leader's Guide (p. 216). NewLife Publications.

Years ago, a wise Christian said to me, "When you are leading people to Christ, never tell them that they are saved because they have done this or that. It is the job of the Holy Spirit to witness to people that they are saved. Unless He is at work, there can be no salvation."

Wise counsel, indeed!

Wiersbe, W. W. (1996). The Bible exposition commentary (Vol. 1, p. 574). Victor Books.

Over the years as I've had the privilege of leading people to Christ, I've seen this happen frequently. It's what I like to call "body evangelism." When we're "of the same mind with one another," the Holy Spirit causes the message to come alive in the hearts of unbelievers. Though I may have led them to make a decision for Christ, in reality the "whole church" led them to faith in Christ. This is what God intended to happen on a regular basis.

Getz, G. A. (2011). Building up one another. David C Cook.

BTHC Spiritual Care is looking for an individual who would be interested in volunteering at our Thursday morning Devotional time. We currently need a musician to either play the guitar or the piano to accompany our singing during the devotional time. The time commitment would be around 45 min to an hour every Thursday morning and whatever practice time you require at home. If you are interested, please call Larry Reimer, Spiritual Care Coordinator BTHC, 204-331-8809 or 204-324-7280.
