Quotes

The Word is divine and the word “became flesh and dwelt among us” (John 1:14). In other words, Jesus is the Word of God who represents God to us and us to God.

Source unknown

“And the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us.” The plain meaning of those words is, that the second person of the Trinity, who always existed now took on himself our human nature. He who is God now also became a man. A big word for that is incarnation. It means the in-fleshing. He did not stop being God. But now he also was a real, sinless, perfect man.

Protestant Reformed Churches in America, Official Website

John turns our attention to the humanity of Jesus and how the Word taking on flesh reveals God and makes him knowable in a unique way and essential way. John 1:14 displays the heart of God to draw near to us by assuming our human condition in order that we may know him and experience salvation through faith in Christ.
